

Seasons Village Offers Luxurious Standard Features

Active adult communities are exciting places for the homeowner to take advantage of a new lifestyle. In fact, this kind of living incorporates some of the most forward-thinking and exciting ideas in residential development today. Seasons Village, located between Troy and Glen Carbon, offers the safety and intimacy of a gated community with a warm neighborly feel, a hometown ambiance, and luxurious amenities.

At Seasons Village, you own your own single-family detached home that has been designed to be on one level with no steps. There are six house plans ranging from 1600 to 2200 square feet with standard features that are unmatched by the competition and really tell the story of an upscale development designed to suit the tastes and needs of the mature homebuyer. An in house architect is available to help you plan your dream home.

Exterior standard features such as ice/snow melting driveways and sidewalks, custom melamine cabinets in the garage and a lush landscaping package are included. Homeowners will enjoy Kitchen Aide appliance packages, custom cabinets, an abundance of windows, plus many architectural features such as coffered ceilings, crown molding, 6-inch base boards and custom melamine cabinetry in the closets. Master baths feature heated floors and walk-in showers finished with ceramic tile. All of these standard features combine to set the bar for the distinctly different homes at Seasons Village.

Without the burden of yard maintenance and other household responsibilities, Seasons Village residents will be free to take advantage of local amenities and activities, as well as those in St. Louis and the surrounding region.
